

Dr. Debswapna Bhattacharya is an Assistant Professor in the Computer Science and Software Engineering department situated within Samuel Ginn College of Engineering at Auburn University. He received his Ph.D. in Computer Science from the University of Missouri – Columbia. His research focuses on bioinformatics, computational biology, machine learning, and data science. Dr. Bhattacharya has authored or co-authored over 19 peer-reviewed publications and developed several open-source software and freely available web-servers for biomedical research.